Sophie Wake, AOH 2020 brochure cover artist, is a contemporary British artist, working from her studio in Brighton. She graduated from the University of Brighton with a BA Hons in Graphic Design & Illustration and worked for more than twenty years as a successful freelance illustrator before turning to painting full-time four years ago. Sophie's animal portraits and candid portrayals of the female form strip away layers to reach inward, capturing the beauty of raw emotion. Read more about Sophie and her work on page 4

Covid-19 guidelines for Open House visitors

All Open Houses have put measures in place to ensure a safe and enjoyable experience for visitors this year.

Please help us by following the guidelines:

- Please wear a face covering when visiting Open Houses this year (unless you are exempt and carry an NHS exemption form). Open Houses will be able to offer you one if you do not have one with you.
- Please use hand sanitiser on entry to each Open House and wash your hands when you can.
- Please maintain a 2 metre social distance from other visitors. Visitor numbers in all venues are restricted to follow current government law.
- Please wait to be invited in if the Open House is already at full visitor capacity.
- Visitors who have downloaded the NHS Track and Trace app will be asked to check in via a QR code at each venue. Other visitors will be asked to write down contact details on entry to venues.
- If you are asked to queue please do not block pavements or other house entrances. Please always keep a safe distance from others.
- Where relevant please follow one-way systems.
- Use contactless payments where possible.
- If you develop a new continuous cough or fever, please inform the venue, leave immediately and follow government advice on staying at home.

Please check regularly for updates:

The Artists Open Houses (AOH) Festival will be a little different this year. Due to the new national lockdown, the AOH festival will be online 21st November - 31st December. In November we will be an online-only festival, with virtual tours of Open Houses available to view on our website. From 5-13th of December we hope to return to normality, when you will be able to visit Open Houses and meet artists in person.

This year has been like no other and we are all in need some festive cheer; alongside an array of inspirational art, the AOH Festival will deliver the best aspects of both May and Christmas Festivals, offering great art as well as unique, handmade Christmas gifts.

Online 'Virtual Open Houses' will include online video tours round artists' houses, as well individual online galleries. By browsing the artists' listings you can hear about their work, the processes of making and the ideas behind it, and you can buy the work directly from the artists and makers. From December 5th-13th we are hopeful that the regular AOH Festival, where artists welcome visitors into their homes and studios, will return. *Please visit: aoh.org.uk for regular updates and specific opening days.

This year AOH is delighted to have internationally regarded artist, David Shrigley's support for our young artists, mentoring sculpture students from the University of Brighton (supported by a student bursary from the Hannington's Lane development company) and giving online workshops and tutorials to recent graduates exhibiting in the New Grounds exhibition.

The Artists Open Houses festival is a community event, encouraging participation from artists at all stages of their careers, from school and college students, through young emergent artists, to established, professional artists and makers. Many charities supporting artists with mental health issues, learning disabilities and older artists in residential care, are also taking part virtually or in person, reflecting their experiences of the last few months through their art.

More than ever this year it is important to support our local artists and makers who help to make Brighton and Hove the vibrant city that it is. Many AOH artists have made good use of the isolation of recent months, finding space to explore new ideas and ways of working. This festival offers a wonderful opportunity to discover online (and, we hope, in person) really exciting, inspiring and distinctive new work, alongside a host of Christmas gifts.

Many Open Houses are providing booking systems so that you can plan your visits in secure environments. All will supply facemasks and hand sanitiser and will follow current government Covid-19 guidelines, including managed social distancing.

AOH would like to thank Arts Council England and Brighton and Hove City Council for their valuable support this year.

Remember to visit aoh.org.uk for regular updates.

Sophie Wake

2020 cover artist

Sophie Wake, AOH 2020 brochure cover artist, is a contemporary British artist, working from her studio in Brighton. She graduated from the University of Brighton with a BA Hons in Graphic Design & Illustration and worked for more than twenty years as a successful freelance illustrator before turning to painting full-time four years ago. Sophie's animal portraits and candid portrayals of the female form strip away layers to reach inward, capturing the beauty of raw emotion.

Sophie says:

'At its best my fine art practice responds naturally to the rhythms of meditation that fill my life.

Channeling imagination through the process of somatic self-inquiry allows a reaching inward to unrefined, raw human emotion. Most importantly I like to paint spontaneously and swiftly. My favourite pieces come from keeping the energy of a particular feeling tone, expressing the unfiltered joy of precious moments in presence, and somehow harnessing a sense of that into the painting.

The three figures in my cover painting HOPE look up for divine intervention. With hands on hearts they seek to liberate themselves from the mental and physical shackles that bind them to their inner turmoil and unceasing mind that clouds their truth. They HOPE to reveal clarity of presence and in doing so they will become potent and clear in their actions for the welfare and benefit of all beings.

In 2017 I was shortlisted for three Artists Open House Awards, winning Best Newcomer. In 2018, my painting HERD was selected for the Royal Academy's 250th Summer Exhibition, where it appeared in Grayson Perry's hand-curated Yellow Room, and in 2019 I won Best Artists Open House for my solo show. I am delighted and grateful to be the AOH 2020 cover artist this year.

A warm welcome awaits at the RED BRICK HOUSE. Private appointments are also available every week day and before general opening hours at the weekends.'

David Shrigley

New Grounds and We, You, Me

AOH is hugely grateful to internationally acclaimed artist and 2018 Brighton Festival Guest Artistic Director, David Shrigley, who supported our young artist projects. Using Zoom, David mentored sculpture students from the University of Brighton (supported by a student bursary from the Hanningtons Lane development company), as well as giving workshops and tutorials to recent graduates exhibiting in the New Grounds exhibition.

Details of New Grounds at Gallery Lock In, can be found on page 15 and We, You, Me at 15 Brighton Place on page 36.

David says:

'It was a great pleasure to be involved with the AOH projects.

The tutorials that I led with students and emerging artists were the first that I have done online: I guess this will be the norm for a while.

In spite of the remote interaction the conversations we had were really enjoyable and the participants were all very generous and thoughtful in the presentation of their work.

It would have been nicer to meet in person and to physically see the work but maybe having the events via Zoom etc. were actually quite efficient and I feel we got to have a longer and less pressured discussion that we otherwise would have had.

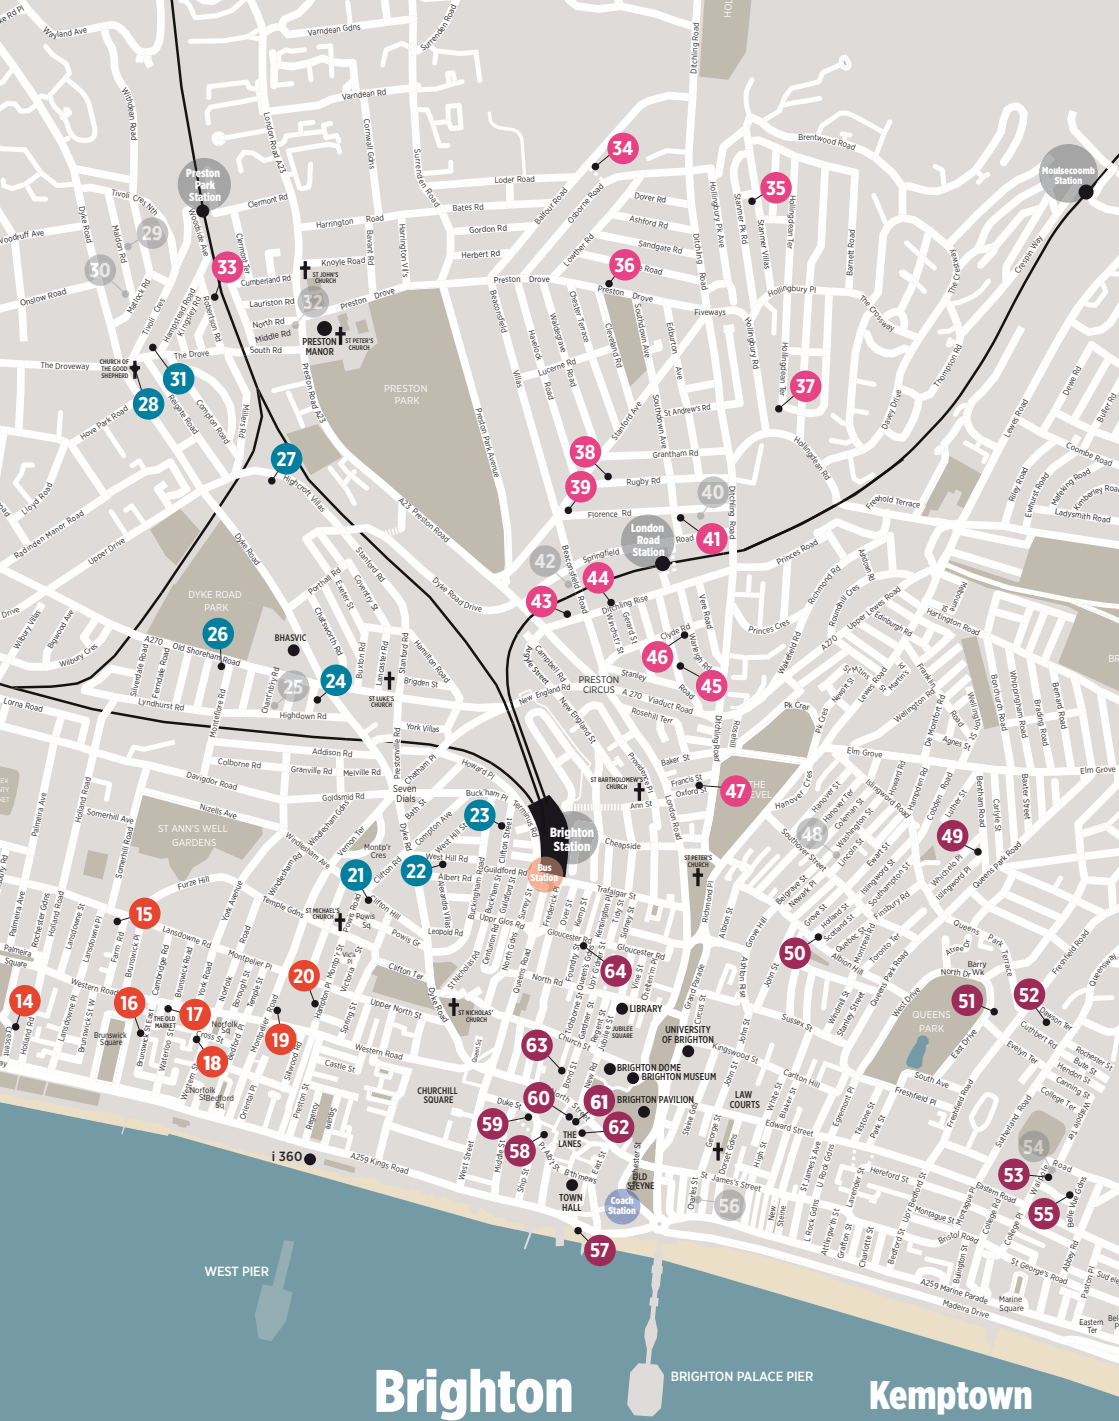

I have my mask ready and am looking forward to seeing the work at the actual exhibitions.

Making art is so valuable for many people's health and wellbeing and the AOH project provides a priceless opportunity for artists to share their work.'

18 New Grounds @ Gallery Lock In

Gallery Lock In, Little Western Street, Hove BN1 2PU

New Grounds and Gallery Lock In present Body/ Nobody, an exhibition that creates a dialogue between the physical and digital realm. Featuring works from emerging artists working in photography, augmented reality, performance, illustration and print-making, the exhibition will explore the implications of presence, isolation, shared spaces, absence, omnipotence and dissonance.

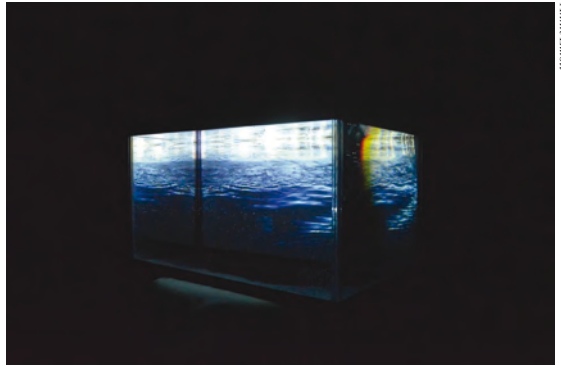

The subject of collective memory underpins this diverse group of works, confronting the inherent dichotomy of mark making as a tool for recollection. Particularly with the photograph, which marks the absence of the subject it presents, it also holds the potential to cement it in time. Between the physical installation and online gallery, the show will ask if memories can be stored in objects, in lines of code, in traces of what has been left behind and whether we lose these markers in the digital realm where everything is constantly perpetuated as present. Are digital spaces dangerous for collective memory, do they bring us together or push us further apart?

Programmed and curated by Idil Bozkurt (New Grounds) and Beth Troakes (Gallery Lock In) and mentored by AOH ambassador David Shrigley, artists include:

Inspire Me and Fill Me Up: Faye Bridgwater

A close up of 'Chapters' Faye Bridgwater

New venue for 2020! Faye returns to Artists Open Houses, welcoming you to her own home for the first time with this joyful solo exhibition!

This year, Faye had a huge confidence boost, with her work winning not one but two prizes: the John Purcell Paper Prize for the Royal Institute of Painters in Water Colours and the Derwent Art Prize (People's Choice). She also had work selected for The Society of Women Artists annual exhibition. After this, she was buoyant and started creating her new work with ease. With this confidence came bold, expressive brushwork and self-assured joy, laying down exciting colours and lines.

Faye's home will be filled with contemporary landscape paintings, beautiful drawings, quick studies, ceramic landscapes and greeting cards. Her work is inspired by the photos posted on her Brighton Skies Facebook Group that Faye founded in 2017 that now boasts over 15,000 members.

15 Brighton Place, Brighton BN1 1HJ

Hanningtons Lane Student Bursary

We, You, Me, the Artists Open Houses student bursary exhibition, offered by the new Hanningtons Lane Development, features the work of four third year Fine Art: Sculpture students studying at the University of Brighton. Having last exhibited together in the OXY exhibition held at the University of Brighton city campus galleries this new exhibition is an opportunity to see the development of these emerging artists' work following their conversations with the internationally renowned artist and AOH Ambassador David Shrigley.

Bradley Smith's work focuses on contemporary gender issues. The work encourages people to view gender as a constantly evolving, fluid construct. Using household fabrics, text and symbols to create soft sculptural forms, the work aims to engage audiences in questioning societies heteronormative views on gender and sexuality.

Jack Digby's work investigates the juxtapositions between nature and the manmade. Through the use of metals, found materials and florescent lights he examines themes related to human nature such as relationships, the self, causes of destruction and decay, and our affiliation to the digital age.

Liberty Cheverall creates sculptures, drawings and installation artworks, exploring the domestic and ideologies of the home. Themes of security, finance, relationships, materialism and sentiment are explored. Her artworks combine found objects with newly created forms to reflect both familiarity and uncertainty. The work employs images of houses constructed from carpet and metal to investigate ideas and emotions associated with home. Sculpture and installation works frequently incorporate audience interaction to complete the work.

Ainoa Burgos Gonzalez born in Segovia, Spain and is based in Brighton. Her artistic practice is multidisciplinary, encompassing sculpture, installation, performance and photography, to investigate the body and its engagement in space. Sculpture and installation works examine the physical body; the connection between people and the trace the body leaves on surfaces and places.

Please visit our AOH online listing to book a (free) 30 minute viewing slot.

The world's first 3D Gallery situated in a three-story fisherman's cottage, is an ideal setting for Le Roy's darkly humorous gothic/modern revision of traditional fairy tales. Red/blue glasses enable visitors to see the 3D effects and interact with the paintings in a whole new way. Snow White, Sleeping Beauty and Tinkerbell wander through mental wards and crime scenes. Le Roy has exhibited in Brussels and Hong Kong; also at Royal Society of Portrait Painters, Mall Galleries, London. Her work is held in private and corporate collections across the world.
